A DESPONDENT BOOTMAKER.
 William Keane, 33 years of age, a bootmaker, who has had a stirring history, committed suicide yesterday morning by drinking strychnine. He was liberated from gaol recently, after serving 10 years for shooting at Constable Herbert. Since his liberation he has been unable to obtain any work, and his inability to support himself gave him great trouble, and drove him to despondency. On Saturday night he was low-spirited, and told his brother-in-law, with whom he lived in Wellington-street, Collingwood, that he was tired of his life, and thought he would end it all some day. Then, as if it were an after thought, he added, "You might as well say good-bye to my friend Florrie for me next time you see her, it will save me bother." He went to bed, and nothing more was seen or heard of him until early in the morning. Then it was discovered that he had swallowed strychnine. The police were summoned, and the man was hurried by Constable Stocks to the Melbourne Hospital, where he died within a few minutes. The matter has been reported to the coroner, who will hold an inquest.
