GREEN GUILTY OF MURDER

Sentence of Death Imposed

JURY OUT 6 HOURS

George Green, 38 years, Bamfield-road, Heidelberg, chimney sweep, was found guilty by a jury in the Criminal Court last night on charges of having murdered Annie Wiseman, 63 years, and her niece, Phyllis Wiseman, 17 years, at their Glenroy home on the night of November 12. He was sentenced to death by Mr. Justice Lowe. The jury deliberated for nearly six hours.

Green, who was showing signs of strain when he entered the dock, after the jury knocked at 8.35 p.m., took the sentence calmly, and when asked by the judge's associate if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him, said, "Nothing." When the question was completed, he said, "No." The sentence was then passed and Green was removed to the cells.

The two women were found strangled p.m. before they could consider the question of Green's guilt. The Crown morned of November 13, and the Crown alleged that they had been slain about 10.30 on the previous night. A note bearing an address in Thornbury, which was alleged to have been given to Green by a woman in Coburg, was found near the body of the elder woman.

Green's defence was an alibi. He denied that he had been in the Glenroy district since the previous August, and said that when the crime was alleged to have been committed he was sleeping on a vacant allotment. He denied all knowledge of or complicity in the crime.

Much public interest centred on the trial, which began last Monday. At all sessions of the hearing the public gallery was crowded, and many people waited outside the court for the doors to be opened. While the jury was deliberating yesterday, onlookers waited in the corridors. Thirty witnesses were called by the Crown, and the transcript of evidence occupied more than 260 foolscap pages.

Although none was admitted to the gallery last night, a large crowd was congregated outside the court in Lonsdale street.

Chain of Evidence

Green had pleaded not guilty to the charges, and was defended by Mr. L. Little (instructed by Mr. J. Barnett). Mr. Book, K.C., conducted the Crown cause.

Addressing the jury when the hearing was resumed yesterday morning, Mr. Little, who spoke for two hours and 10 minutes, said some exceptionally strong links were missing from the chain of circumstantial evidence adduced by the Crown, and added that caution was necessary in weighing such evidence. Finger prints, which would have constituted one of the most important links in the chain of evidence, were missing.

Mr. Little contended that there was no evidence to show Green was within eight miles of the Wiseman home on the night of November 12. Nor was there evidence to show Green was in possession of any extra wealth at any time after November 12, or that he was in possession of anything which might have come from the Wiseman home.

"There might be many other missing links from the supposed chain of evidence, but these three are outstanding," Mr. Little said.

The jury had to be satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the two women met their deaths somewhere about 10.30

The jury retired at 2.55 p.m.

Crown Case Ends In Murder Trial

Definite denials that he was implicated in the slaying of two women at Glenroy on November 12, or that he had been in the locality since the beginning of August, last year, were made in the Criminal Court yesterday by George Green, 38 years, chimney sweep, who is on trial before a jury in the Criminal Court on a charge of having murdered Annie Wiseman, 63 years, and her niece, Phyllis Wiseman, 17 years. The hearing is before Mr. Justice Lowe.

Green pleaded not guilty to the charges and is defended by Mr. L. Little (instructed by Mr. J. Barnett). Mr. Book, K.C., is conducting the case for the Crown.

Continuing the police evidence, Senior Detective Delminico said he had taken samples of hair from a chestnut horse driven by Alex Aitken, at whose house Green was living.

At the detective office witness said to Green that he had accounted for his whereabouts for approximately nine hours by saying that he had lain down and gone to sleep. It was suggested to Green that if he could point out the place, he would be taken to it. Green was also told that if there were any persons whom he had seen or to whom he had spoken an endeavour would be made to locate them. Delminico said he asked Green if there was anything that the police could check up for him, and Green replied, "No, you can do nothing for me."

Asked by Mr. Little if he attached importance to the piece of hair found on the connection of the bicycle pump, Delminico said he had thought it should be examined. It was because the analyst told him the hairs were from a chestnut horse, that he took the samples from the Charles Anthony Taylor, Government analyst, said he viewed the bodies of the two deceased at the City Morgue on November 13 and examined the Glenroy house on that and the following days, when he found a number of grey hairs. He examined the clothing taken from Green, and found several long white hairs, which he said were similar in length and identical in texture and color to the hair of Miss Annie Wiseman.

Taylor said that on November 22, he examined a bicycle pump, which seemed to have been lying out in the weather.

He took a chestnut horse hair from the connection. Later Detective Delminico handed him an envelope containing police hairs, some of which were similar in color and texture to the one taken from the Witness then described how he removed dirt from the connection and found that it contained soot, sand grains and mineral dust. Referring to the flannel singlet among Green's clothing, he said: "I extracted dirt from the shoulder of the garment and found there were particles of soot, some sand grains and mineral ash."

Witness described a dark mark or stain near the neck of the pyjamas worn by the elder Miss Wiseman and said it consisted of tiny particles of carbon.

Mr. Little: You, Green, had nothing to do with the murder of these two women?

Green: Definitely, no!

Mr. Book: When you were being taken on this drive to Glenroy did you ask why you were being taken there?

Green: I did; they said I would know in time.

When was the last time you said you had been at Glenroy? — Round about the beginning of August.

How many chimneys did you sweep? — Round about 10 or 12.

Did you ever hear Miss Wiseman mentioned? — I did not.

You do not suggest any detective mentioned her name? — They did not.

CROWN CASE IN MURDER TRIAL

The Age — 21. 2. 39

Glenroy Tragedy Recalled

Outlining the Crown case at the trial of George Green, 38 years, chimney sweep, Heidelberg, who is charged with having murdered Annie Constance Wiseman, 63 years, and Phyllis Wiseman, 17 years, at Glenroy, on November 12, the Crown Prosecutor, Mr. Book, K.C., told a jury in the Criminal Court yesterday that the most important clue in a series of telling circumstances which led to the arrest of the accused was the finding of portion of a milk bill near the body of Annie Wiseman.

Green, who pleaded not guilty, is defended by Mr. L. Little (instructed by Mr. J. Barnett). The trial is being heard before Mr. Justice Lowe and may end on Thursday.

"The crime with which you have to deal," Mr. Book said to the jury, "was a most brutal and repulsive one, as two innocent women were killed by a man who apparently entered their home with the intention of stealing what he could. It may be that, when the man entered the house, murder was not in his mind, but he did not hesitate to kill two unfortunate women to cover up his tracks."

During the week end of November 12, Mr. Book proceeded, Miss Annie Wiseman had her niece, Phyllis, who was a typist, staying with her at her home in Glenroy. During the day the two women had their evening meal with Mrs. Barrett, a sister of Annie Wiseman, who lived nearby. They returned home early and Phyllis, who was not well, retired to bed about 7 p.m. Annie Wiseman followed about three hours later. Between 10 and 11 a.m. next day Mrs. Barrett called at the house to inquire after the health of Phyllis. Knocks at the door brought no response, and Mrs. Barrett entered the house to see the terrifying spectacle of her niece dead on the floor of her bedroom. She was clad only in her pyjama coat, and the bed clothes were disarranged.

Mrs. Barrett then entered her sister's room and saw her dead body also on the floor. Police were informed, and investigation showed that the crime had been committed in the dark, as the electric light cords were torn out and spent matches were found. It was discovered that Annie Wiseman drew £1 10/- in notes from the bank on the Saturday morning, but the only money found were a few shillings in a shopping bag and in a coat in the wardrobe.

Struggle in the Dark

Dealing with the finding of the portion of a milk bill near the body of Annie Wiseman, Mr. Book said on November 7 accused called at the home of a Mrs. Thomas to sweep a chimney. Mrs. Thomas told him she had just left a house at 118 Collins-street, Thornbury, and that the chimneys were very dirty. She thereupon wrote "Mrs. Hewitt, 118 Collins-street, Thornbury" on the back of portion of the bill, and handed it to accused so that he could call at the address and endeavor to obtain some work.

"This document," Mr. Book went on, "was apparently left behind by the man who committed these crimes. All the indications are that the man was struggling with Annie Wiseman in the dark, and that the note slipped out of his pocket unnoticed. It is a most significant document. Accused was later questioned by the detectives regarding it. He admitted it had been given to him, but, added that he subsequently gave it to two sweeps whom he had met in Merlynton. This proved to be an un-

Questions by Police

Mr. Book said detectives took a car round suburbs, where he worked. When they got to Miss Green's home, Green was asked, "Did you ever clean a chimney there?" He replied, "No, but I have canvassed the public works commissioning period of last year, 1938, 124 building permits were issued. The figures represented a building, included 13 brick villa pairs, 23 garages and 6/ or 8/.

Another telling point in the chain of circumstantial evidence, Mr. Book said, was an examination by an analyst of hair found on Green's coat. This was compared with white hair found in the carpet near Miss Annie Wiseman's body and on her dressing gown. It was identical in texture and color and similar in length to Miss Wiseman's hair. In addition, some spots of blood were found on Green's clothing.
