shown is required. It is to be drawn on a scale of 8 chains to an inch and to show the position of the ground, and the position of the various features of the country is conveyed it can be reduced to a scale of half an inch to a mile for determination of position. The plotting of distances and distances can keep pace with the progress of the survey but the completion of the plan has little to do with the survey and the work remains of the plan which will be prepared for the operations and which it will be necessary to keep a full party, thereby saving an expense to the Government and prevent the loss of money by the loss of the land at least of the lot must be devoted to the cardinal points of the compass. The line of the survey which according to the practice of the Surveyors should be kept straight to form a boundary between adjacent sections or lots shall in no case be included in the plan. No single lot shall have more than a like proportion of State acreage for any quantity greater than 160 acres. But the whole party shall be reduced according to the distance from one station point nearest to the other in a right line and not according to the bearing of the State course or line. The laying out of the section it will be necessary to preserve a record of access to every allotment by marking roads or clear land at the back of them and leaving roads at every 1/2 or 3/4 of a mile on the banks of rivers in order to allow access to the water for the boats and wharves.
