PARSONS.—On the 25th June, at Byron-street, North Brighton, suddenly, Henry, beloved husband of Jane Parsons, late of Education department. A colonist of 55 years. No flowers, by request.

Mr. Henry Parsons, a very old member of the scholastic profession, died last week at Brighton, aged 77. He had been a schoolmaster ever since his arrival in Victoria, over half a century ago, and was for a long time in the Victorian Education department, stationed at Connewarre, Lancefield, and Macedon. Since his retirement from the service he had continued giving private tuition, and died within 10 minutes of dismissing his last class.
