To the Secretary
Dept. of Education.

Sir

I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of Memorandum with reference to full Christian names of Mrs Maria C. Slade.

I am unable to say what the initial C stands for.

Mrs Slade has not been living with me for many years and I do not correspond with her; were it not for this reason I would write and enquire.

I herewith furnish her address

Mrs Slade
Swan Street
opposite Edinburgh St.
E. - Richmond.

Trusting that you will excuse me on account of our long separation.

I have the honor to be

Sir

Yours Respectfully
Simpson Slade

 School not called well enough informed but deficient in good sense
 In this respect he does not seem to be regarded with confidence by the parents, although no complaint formally preferred. Is not satisfied with his position - pupils properly classified - supervision well maintained. It distributes the lessons conveniently - gives attention to all the programme subjects

BURSTON. - On the 10th October, at his residence, "Bonhurst", Orong crescent, Caulfield, John James, late of the Education department, beloved husband of Barbara Burston, and second son of the late Mr. David Burston, aged 68 years. (Private interment.)

Age 68 1/2

Mr. J. J. Burston, who died on Sunday, as was announced in yesterday's issue, had been a teacher under the State Education department for upwards of 45 years, and had acted as head teacher in State schools in the Western district, Bendigo, Ballarat, Richmond, St. Kilda and other parts of the State. He was an ardent worker in his profession, and, not content with devoting his energies to the best advantage of the pupils who came immediately under his control, he enthusiastically spent a large amount of his spare time in the difficult problems of how to make various subjects of the State school curricula more effectively and profitably grasped with by students of all grades. Among his literary productions may be mentioned "The State School Arithmetic," "The State School Grammar," and "Treatise on Science." Since his retirement from the State service, some four years ago, he had been engaged on the production of an advanced arithmetic, which was completed and ready for the printers' hands only a few weeks ago. In addition to holding the trained teachers' certificate, he was one of the very few teachers who obtained all the science certificates issued by the Education department. Two of his sons are at present serving the Empire at the front.
