An inquest was held on Saturday by Mr. Candler, at Dromana, on the body of Margaret Cox, a widow, aged thirty-nine years. Deceased had been living for some time with a fisherman, named Jas. Martin, residing near Dromana. On Tuesday night Martin, on his return home, found deceased lying on the floor, her clothes, the bedclothes, and everything around burning. Deceased, who was able to speak, was taken up and placed on a stretcher, when it was found that her elbow and shoulder were burned. She became very violent and occasioned some trouble to those attending her. She died on the next morning. Some days previous to her death she had been drinking hard. Mr. J. P. Lane having made a post-mortem examination of the body, found that the cause of death was congestion of the brain and other organs, probably caused by the use of alcoholic liquors, and the jury returned a verdict to that effect.

DEATH.

COX.—On 18th inst., at his residence, Somerset, North Brighton, Ross Cox, in his sixty-third year.

MELBOURNE, 20th SEPTEMBER, 1894.

CURRENT NOTES.

ROSS COX.

DIED 18TH SEPTEMBER, 1894.

Æt. 63.

It is with deep regret that we are called upon to announce to-day the death of a gentleman who, though not in the ordinary acceptation of the term a public man, had much to do and to say in connection with public events in Victoria. On Tuesday last Ross Cox died at his residence, North Brighton, deeply regretted by a large circle of friends and admirers. To the outside world the name of Ross Cox simply calls up the memory of an energetic and hard-working Inspector of Schools, a post from which the deceased gentleman retired on a pension but a few months back. But to the inner circle of his Press and private friends his connection with the Public Service was his least claim to fame. For many years Ross Cox occupied a foremost position in the foremost rank of Australian journalists and writers. He had the rare faculty of being a solid political writer and at the same time a clever humorist. For years his pen dealt with "burning questions" in the leading columns of the daily Press, whilst at the same time as "Luke Smyley" in PUNCH he was contributing all kinds of light literature, from burlesque leaders to mother-in-law stories and bon trovato anecdotes. His facile pen could be either serious, comic or serio-comic. For years he wrote "Under the Verandah" for the Leader, was a regular contributor to PUNCH, and to the daily press contributed those quasi-scientific accounts of new inventions which deceived half the world and amused the other half. His serious description of the Photobalus and of the Telegastrograph were copied in good faith by papers in all parts of the world, and were even translated by deceived journalists for the benefit of foreign newspaper-readers.

As a public servant Mr. Cox gave every satisfaction to his superior officer, although he was an inveterate enemy to red-tape. As a private individual he had the esteem and admiration of the circle of friends who knew him, and his death, though not unexpected, will come as a great shock to them. Mr. Cox, whilst on an inspectoral tour through the country, caught a severe cold—this developed into asthma, and, as stated, Ross Cox, brightest, wittiest of jokers and satirists, died on Tuesday. He was 63 years of age, had been twice married, and leaves a widow and a grown-up family.

"Alas, poor Yorick! I knew him, Horatio!"

Cox, Mrs. Mary

Roll No	Classification	Authority	Remarks.
1187	Swindley 2 1 1	79/42654 H.	appears to have improved somewhat as an organizer – his methods, however, must be still rather defective
		77/18732 H.	H.I. admonished to be more careful in marking the rolls.
		77/40186.	Cautioned that unless at next inspection he proves himself more efficient in the conduct of the school it will be necessary to remove him to a smaller school –
		78/35945	Mr. Crooke censured for irregularity of his attendance on certain days. Informed that notice of time of arrival and departure of members of Staff should be made by each member in his own handwriting – a practice which does not appear to have been observed in Mr. Crookes School.
		79/30262	Mr. Crooke censured and fined £2 for neglect of duty. D.I. having found at his visit, Oct. 8th, 1879, a dirty state – It was also reported that records had been carelessly kept and that the P.T. had not received full instruction –
Russell	29 5	79/23340 H.	is undoubtedly a very careless teacher). He is not fit to organize a school, as he requires too much watching
	28 9	80/23056 H.	Gamble – Is not adapted for night-school work.
		80/11999	Fined £1 for neglecting to send in Quarterly returns to Board of Advice
		81/48044.	Fined £2 for delay in sending in Monthly returns
	25 4	80/18573 H.	Gamble – Appears to have altered considerably for the better – appears earnest in his work, & attentive to the school. –

		82/5 20920	Censured for the improper use of Frank Stamps. Cautioned against the further misuse of franks. Furnished with copy of Sec 19 Part I of P.O. Amend. Act 1870
Mr Crooke having explained		82/28455	that franks was used for correspondence with Editor of "Leader" on school business; was further informed, that in addition to the improper use of franks he had, by his own admission, been guilty of an infringement of O.S. Reg. 1021, which distinctly forbids communication to the Public Press on school matters: – & that his conduct in so doing was considered censurable on both points.
	26 7	82/29781 H.	Board of Enquiry ordered unnecessary. – Cautioned against failing to keep the records of the School duly compiled to date.
	18 4	82/15616 H.	Gamble – Understands good methods & generally adopts them: – has been earnest in the discharge of his school duties for some time, Capable if in earnest, but I am afraid his good intentions flag –
