Daily Telegraph 11th May 1881.

Detectives Connolly and Mahoney yesterday arrested a man named Robert Deacon, aged thirty-eight, for forging and uttering a promissory note for £150 in August last. The document was found in the name of one George Ardell, who was, at the time the felony is alleged to have been committed, a mounted constable stationed at Phillip Island, and was discounted in the City of Melbourne Bank, Melbourne. The fraud was not, however, discovered until three months afterwards. Deacon, who has been respectively a storekeeper at Cheltenham, a State-school teacher at Griffith's Point, and a boarding-house keeper at Carlton, was arrested by the detectives in Spring street, on the strength of a photograph, and lodged in the city watch-house, to appear before the City Police Court this morning.

FORGERY AND UTTERING.—Robert Deacon was charged with forging and uttering a promissory note for £150. The prisoner pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. Fisher. Mr. O. A. Smyth prosecuted for the Crown. The facts of the case, as sworn to by the witnesses, were that, a few days before the 28th of September last, the prisoner went to the City of Melbourne Bank to have renewed a promissory note for £150, signed by George Ardell, in prisoner's favour, and accepted by prisoner. The note had been discounted by the bank, and would become due on the 28th September. As the bank held collateral security in the shape of a mortgage for £150, they agreed to renew the bill, the clerk filled up a form, and prisoner took it away. He returned a couple of days afterwards with the promissory-note bearing the signature "George Ardell." The old note was given up to him, and the renewal discounted. The renewed note became due on 1st February, when prisoner asked for time. The bank waited until 25th March, and then wrote to Ardell, a constable at Phillip Island, demanding payment from him. Ardell stated that he had never seen the promissory notes, and the signatures to both were forgeries. The prisoner was his brother-in-law. Prisoner had stated to one of the arresting detectives that he did sign Ardell's name to the notes. It was all right, as the bank had a mortgage as security. Mr. Fisher said the prisoner had signed Ardell's name, but he did it without any intent to defraud. The £150 was lent by the bank on the mortgage for £170, and not on the promissory notes. The mortgage was still security for the amount lent. The jury, after consideration, returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

Mr. Insp. Brown reports after the inspection in May 1868:—

Time Table — The same that was previously condemned — has "not been altered & is not adhered to".

Instruction — Improvement noticeable in 3 & 4 classes"

Infants — The teacher does not exhibit a fair amount of ability in their management. They are not instructed suitably to their age.

Discipline — School quiet but a great lack of work.

Teachers. — Robert Deacon — not classed — "conducts a class "in a listless and inefficient manner — I failed "to discover anything good in his lesson." (see Form H for 1st half of 1868).

Topp	17	16	76/3546 H.		I cannot speak well of him — he has very little notion of teaching and does not take much pains to do his best — he is not as tidy or clean as he should be — if he fails again at examination I would recommend a change.
	3	2	76/5671 H.		He has very slight acquaintance with the methods of class teaching, but does his best while in School; — his industry is not great.
Sircom	29	10	77/4302 H.		Slow — unanimated — may do better in the absence of the Inspector — than when he is present.
