John Gladstones

Roll No.	Classification	Authority	Remarks
1508		6 2 92/4500H	J. Holland: Judging from the state of the school, Mr Gladstones seems to have been a good school manager. I was favourably impressed by the fact that no extra effort appeared to be put forward during inspection - the impression left on my mind being that the work of the school goes on the same, whether an inspector is present or not. On the other hand, Mr Gladstones takes no active part in teaching. I did not see him give a lesson, or render any assistance, or offer any practical suggestions to the teachers. He is no longer a vigilant or effective manager: fails to note the classes that require his assistance and has lost his quickness in detecting weak points and matters calling for his attention. Keeps too much in his office, and in those at times when his presence is needed in other parts of the school. The discipline of school is generally good, but in the one case, where I was somewhat lax in his presence, he failed to exercise sufficient authority. I agree with the recommendation already made that he should be called upon to retire.
		92/5529	H.O. Allowed to withdraw resignation & continue duties until evening of 5th of November, on the completion of his 65th year.
20	6	92 29017H	Samble: Appears earnest in the performance of his duties. I. Gladstones informed that the Minister is unable to accede to his request that he be allowed to continue his service to end of year (1892).

LORMER. - On the 21st October, at Hawthorn, William John Lormer, J.P., native of St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, resident in Melbourne since 1854, aged 54. (Private funeral. No flowers.)

The death occurred yesterday of Mr. W. J. Lormer, who had been prominent in the public life of Melbourne for very many years, especially as a total abstinence advocate. He was a native of Canada, and came to Melbourne 35 years ago. He was always in the forefront of the temperance movement, and an enthusiastic supporter of the Prohibitionist Association. Some years ago he made sensational charges in regard to the administration of the law by honorary justices, as the result of which what was known as the Lormer Inquiry Board was constituted. A Radical in politics, Mr. Lormer was on several occasions an aspirant for Parliamentary honours, but without success. He was not successful as a candidate at the recent elections, when he opposed Mr. ...
